ABSOLUTE BLACK

Description

Absolute Black is a black granite from India. It has a very constant colour and texture. Absolute Black has a rich black hue with a crystalline reflection.

Previously, the Absolute Black was imported from Zimbabwe up until the civil war broke all international relations. Thankfully, the industry could count on a new source: India. Compared to the Absolute Black from Zimbabwe, the stone from India contains very little impurities. People who will incorporate a parcel of this stone can now take advantage of its rich and mysterious darkness, a testament to its new country of origin.

India started exporting high-quality black granites towards the end of the 1960's. The higher quality granites are very dense and have a constant colouration, including the black granites from southern India. There are over 80 quarries that produce black granites, spread out across 400 acres of land. Each quarry is about 2 and 20 acres each.
